DATA SUMMARY

Ranking second in performance amongst all MNPS clusters, the Hillwood cluster includes two Reward elementary schools, two of the highest-performing MNPS traditional middle schools, and the second best performing zoned high school in Nashville.

However, almost half of the elementary students do not continue on to the local zoned middle schools, all middle school achievement scores fall below the state average, and only one in four high schoolers is considered college or career ready. The average ACT is far below what is considered college or career ready (21) and fewer than one-in-ten students are "on track" for math.
